THE PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL DIOCESAN Convention.-The annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in this diocese commenced its session yesterday morning in St. Paul's chapel. Right Rev. Bishop Porter presided. Bishop Young, of Florida, and Bishop Kempton, of Georgia, were also preent. There were about 250 delegates on the floor of the church, and the galleries were well filled by worshippers, the majority being ladies. The opening sentences were read by the Rev. Dr. Eaton, of St. Clement's church, and the Rev. A. M. Johnson, of Brooklyn, read the lessons. The musical portion of the service was Congregational. The sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Morgan, of St. Tromas', who took his text from the first verse of the twenty-s coud chapter of Pani's Epistle to the Corinthians:—"Therefore, let no man glory in men, for all things are yours." After tracing, in a historical manner, the evil conse quences which, in all ages of the Church. have resulted from the inclination of every people to attach undue importance single individuals rather than to principles, he touched, in a cursory manner, on the ritualistic proclivities of certain sects at present in the church. "So long (he said) as we glory in men we shall leave to the dust. We shall gravitate towards the level of men; we shall be enthralled and controlled by them. Nay, more, we shall become the victims of their infirmities and of their inconsistencies. Where are the men who, twenty or thirty years ago, left the deep impress of their opinions upon the household of the established Church of England and upon our American branch! I will not attempt to answer for them all; but I can safely say that the mightiest of them, the real giants, are in the Church of Rome, while of those who retain a present connection with the Church of England, two among them, the most influential and conspicuous, lately distinguished themselves, one by closing the doors of the Westminster Cathedral against the Council of the Church becau_e of his affliction for Colenzo, and the other would throw open the portals of Oxford to sectarian colleges because of his new born love for the Methodists. So on this continent the disciples of ritualism are those who now stand far off from the truth of their young days, and in the love of their faculties wander along, the subjects both of de-rision and ridicuie." The preacher concluded by imploring his hearers to always set principles above men, and to exercise true Christian magnanimity without compromise, and avoid ecclesiastical squabbling and the rancor and

MR. DELMAR'S STATEMENT-THE OFFICIAL CONTRADICTION .- The statement of Mr. Delmar, Director of the Statistical Bureau, relauve to the financial condition of the Government having been thoroughly examined by competent officials of the Treasury Department, under direction of the Secretary, we are authorized to state that Mr. Delmar has omit t d in his exhibit the cash balance on hand the 30th of June last, amounting to $105,000,000 which, of course, forms part of the resources to meet the expenses of the Government. He estimates the receipts at $321,620,000, and the expenditures at $474,959,902, but omits the balance on hand, which, added to the estimated receipt, gives $426 6:0,000. Again, Mr. Delmar estimates the receipts from customs for the six months ending on January 1st, 1869, at $70,000,000, when the receipts for the first three months of that time, ending on September 30th, have been over $19,000,000, and for the six months will be at least $100,000,000 instead of $70,000,000, as he estimated. Several other gross errors appear in the statement of Mr. Delmar, but we have merely mentioned the principal ones as so far reported to the Secretary by the Treasury officers designated to examine the statement of the Director, in order that it may be seen how unreliable his figures

We may notice by the way that Wait Wnitman's book has risen into new life lately, both in England and America. He has just published an edition containing many new poems, and including also the "Drum Taps" which were previously issued in a separate vol ume. The London edition contains an introduc-tion by Rossetti, in which Walt is classed along with Homer, and the one or two other great poetic geniuses of the world. The famous Ger-man poet, Freiligrath, is translating the "Leaves of Grass" into German, and they will soon be published in Dusseldorf. The pertinacity of the existence of the "Leaves" is certainly remarkable in the face of all attacks and ebjections; and his admirers can only attribut it to the appearance in our easy-going, imitative literature of an obstinate, tenacious, determined living American man. We understand that he will soon appear in prose literature with a small work, entitled "Democratic Vis-

PROGRESS OF THE REVOLUTION IN SPAIN The success of the revolutionary movement in Spain, ending as it has in the expulsion of Queen Isabella, gives rise to much speculation as to her probable successor. It is generally believed that the dislike of the Emperor Napo-leon to the Orleans family is fatal to the hopes of Montpensiers, and that a Carlist will be chosen to rule over Spain is regarded as impossible. The ancient rights of the House of Savoy to the throne of Spain are discussed, and the Duke of Aosta, the second son of King Victor Emanuel, is talked of as an available candidate Yesterday's dispatches report Madrid as quiet.

THE ALLEGED REVENUE FRAUDS-Testmen for the Defence.-The invesugation into the charges against Messrs. Rollins, Harland, and Smith was resumed, pursuant to adjournment. The defence recalled Collector Wood, who testified that he knew McHenry, and convers with him about his (McHenry's) failing to ob tain an appointment as an inspector of revenue and that McHenry said he had failed through Harland, and would get even with him for it. Geo. B. Lincoln. called by the defence, testifled that he had reason to believe that M Henry's reputation was not "A I," and that he should want a margin of his oath. Senator Henry R. Pierson testified that McHenry tolhim, in Washington, in the early part of this year, that he was not appointed to office on ac-count of Mr. Harland, but that he would be up with him for it, or something to that effect James F. Ludduth, called for the defence, tes. tifed as to the pane of glass that McHenry had testified he looked through at the Metropolitan Board rooms. He swore that it was difficult to distinguish faces by looking through it, and that it was not in the door, as sworn to by Mc-Henry, but in the partition near the door; and further, that an ordinary conversation coulnot be heard through the partition. R. C. Morgan and William M. Harding corroborated Ludduth's testimony. Charles Loeb, whom McHenry had testified he had seen count out the money at Willard's, and give it t Commissioner Rollins on the street, was call of by the defence, and contradicted all the mat rial points in McHenry's testimony. The ca. was then adjourned to twelve M, on Tuesday next to give time for the production of three other witnesses by the defence.—N. Y. Post, 1st

The Roman Catholic Synod. The solemen Synod of the Roman Catholic clergy of the diocese sumed yesterday in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Archbishop McCloskey presiding. There was a very large attendance of priests, and throughout the proceedings were marked with that solemnity characteristic of the Catholic Church Shortly before nine o'clock the grand proces sion issued from the vestry room, the clergy, as on the preceding day, being clad in cassock and surplice. At nine o'clock precisely pontifica high mass was commenced, the Archbishop of-ficiating as celebrant, assisted by several clergymen. There was no sermon, and mass having been concluded, the business of the day was proceeded with. The Archbishop deliv ered a brief though earnest and eloquent address, reviewing the important decrees of the Council held in Baltimore. He urged upon the clergymen to obey the behests that were promulgated, and which had now become statutes of this diocese. After some further observations, the Archbishop resumed his seat on the throne, and the business of the Synod was commenced. The sccretary read a resolution moving for an increase from 8600 to $ 10 per year for parish priests. An amendment was proposed, suggesting that the annual salary should be $1,000. The amendment, however, was rejected, and the original resolution was almost unanimously carried. It was next moved to give assistants who had been three years in the priesthood $600 per year, in place of $100, and to give assistants who had not been three years in the priesthood $500 per year. These resolutions were carried.

It was resolved that, in accordance with the decrees of council, there should be no more pic-nics, waltzing, &c., the Council of Balti. more having determined that immoralities proceeded from such meetings. A recess was then taken. It was a notice able feature in the proceedings that, in compliance with the promulgation, Rev. Mr. Hecker. Rev. Mr. Young, and Rev. Mr. Hewitt, Paulist fathers, sat divested of their long beards.

On the reassembling of the Synod some busi ness of minor importance was transacted. Wednesday's Proceedings .- When the secular and regular priests had taken their respective positions on the Gospel and Epistle sides of the altar Archbishop McCloskey intoned the Antiphon, Propitius esto peccatis nostris, Dominie, &c., and the entire assembly chanted the seventy-eighth Psalm, in which the royal prophet bewails the the condition of the Church Israel. Just as the voice of the chanters had ceased that of the Archbishop was heard praying aloud to the Author of all wisdom, The deacon baving asked and received th pontifical blessing, proceeded to sing the Gospel from the tenth chapter of St. Luke. When he came to the words "lessis quiam multa, operarti auiem pauci" (the harvest is great indeed, but the reapers are few.) the Archbisho and many of the priests were visibly affected, recognizing how literally applicable these words are to the Catholic diocese of New York After the Gospel, that splendid hymn by St Thomas, Veni Sancte Spiritus, was sung by the entire Council. On the termination of this hymn the Archbishop addressed the assembly in the following terms:-"Venerable and Be loved Brethren: It now remains to submit to you the rules and regulations, so that each may have an opportunity of expressing an optnion the regulations admit of improvement and modification, and if any one of you wish to ropose amendments I would earnestly beseech him to do so; and the Synod shall decide if it i expedient to adopt his suggestions." this the new code of rules was read and approved of by the assembled priests. Then th list of those who were invited to attend the Synod was called, each clergyman rising and answering "adsum" (here.) The Archbishop then spoke as follows:—Beloved Brethren and Priests of the Lord, fellow-workers in the Ministry: We, however unworthy, hold the nice of Asynon, you that of Florare and the place of Aaron, you that of Eleazer and Ithamar. We are the successors of the apostles, you of the seventy-two disciples. We are your pastors, you are the pastors of the souls committed to your care. We shall have to render an account of you to our Lord Jesus Christ, and you of the faithful under your charge. Therefore we admonish and beseech you to krep before your minds the rules we have adopted, and in every case reduce them to practice. In the first place your lives and demean-ors should be above reproach. You should live up to the letter and spirit of the laws which the Church has laid down for the guidance of piests. You should be very particular about the sacred vessels and vestments which are used in the celebration of the mass. On Sundays you should preach the Word of God and exhort sinners to repentance. It is your duty to be always ready to administer the sacraments and bring back the wandering sheep to the true fold. May our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ give you the grace to discharge these and all your other duties faithfully." The Archbishop then laid aside his mitre and offered up a prayer, returning thanks for the happy and harmonious termination of the The Pontifical blessing and indulgence were then solemnly imparted by the most Reverend Prelate, and the Archdeacon said in a very loud voice, "Recedamus cum pace," (let us all retire in peace,) to which all answered, "In nomine Christi," (in the name of Christ,) and this solemn Council was brought to a close.— N. Y. Herald, 1st.

THE WORKING PROPLE.—The Labor Congress, which was recently held in New York city, contained, it is claimed, representatives from 600,000 working men. This estimate is not considered to be exaggerated, since the census report of 1860 gives the following statistics as to the number of persons engaged in the following trades in the United States and Terrilowing trades in the United States and Terri-tories: Printers, 23,106; carpenters, 242,958; join-ers, 8,328; bricklayers, 14,311; machinists, 43,824; blacksmiths, 112,357, making a total of 444,884. As there were many other occupations repre-sented, the estimate is within the bounds of probability.

APPOINTMENT.—J. J. Ford, Esq., has been appointed, we learn, Postmaster at Leonardtown in place of Mr. N. Conrad, resigned. The appointment appears to give general satisfaction.—St. Mary's (Md.) Beacon.

THE BOYS IN BLUE. The Soldiers and Sailors' Mass Convention

Yesterday, after Mayor McMichael's address of welcome to the delegates, General H. A. Barnum, of the Republican National Committee, responded to the Mayor at considerable length, paying an appropriate tribute to the hospitality of Philadelphia. This concluded the regular exercises, and the assemblage dispersed.

The reception was very largely attended.
General Kilpatrick made a short address, and a few words were also spoken by Gen. Burnside and Governor Curtin. The New York city and State delegations passed up Chesnut street and created great attention. They arrived after the meeting in the square had adjourned. The meeting reassembled in the evening at Independence Square, which presented a mag-nificent spectacle. Three platforms for speaking were erected, all of which were blazing with lights, forming mottoes and names of liv-ing and dead heroes of the war. Spanning the avenue was the motto, "Grant us Peace." Gen. Barnum pronounced an address, closing with the announcement that the 13th of October will be observed among the "boys in bine" as ! holiday, and calling upon employers to relieve their workmen who have served in the Union atmy from labor on that day. Gen. Burnside presided at the meeting. Gen. Kilpatrick made a stirring speech. Gov. Curtin was called upon, but declined, saying that it was a soldiers' meeting, and he desired that they should be heard. The evening was occupied by speeches from various soldiers from three tands. The meeting adjourned early, and the crowd went to the Union League House to

were made. The New York delegation was headed by Gen. Sickles, and numbered two thousand, all in blue coats and fatigue caps, carrying their torches, and accompanied by the Dodworth band and a professional band of splendid singers. Heavy delegations from New England arrived, and great numbers from Ohio and the interior of Pennsylvania. The city is crowded with veterans. The mass meeting at the square was very large. The reading of the address caused great cheering. The New York Boys in Blue serenaded the Press and North American offices, and attracted immense crowds by their music. Col. Forney spoke, in response to repeated calls, from his editorial room, and was followed by Major Hancock, of Maryland. Great mass meetings were held in front of the Continental and the League House, at which Gen. Burnside. Col. Forney, Gen. Barnum and others spoke.

The address of the soldiers and sailors to the country, read at the evening meeting, after re-viewing political affairs, concludes as follows: "In view, therefore, of these hostile prepara-tions for a new rebellion, with a profound sense of our obligations to our country and to the Republican party, we call upon every citizen who were the Union blue, whether on land or sea, to cast his vote in the coming elections for the Union State tickets, and for Grant and Colfax. And further, to mark alike the sincerity and the efficiency of our solemn declaration. nvoke our la apart the election day as a period of unremitting exertion and unceasing vigilance; and we hereby formally announce that on the 13th day of October next, in the States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and Nebraska, there shall be observed among our comrades a general holiday; and we call upon all employers, manufacturers, and business men generally to reliev their workmen on that day who have served in the Union army, and thus assist in completing this patriotic purpose. Victory on the 13th of October will be Sheridan's victory of Five Forks, marshalling the way to Grant's transcendant triumph on the Appomattox in November." Letters were read from General W. T. Sher. nan, Major Generals Sheridan, Howard, Cox. Pope, and Sigel; Governors Feuton, of New York; Baker, of Indiana; Bullock, of Massachusetts; Butler, of Nevaua; Fairchild, of Wis-consin; Hayes, of Ohio; and Page of Vermont. Ex-Governors Morton, of Indiana; Buckingnam, of Connecticut; and Washburn, of Maine Hon. Matt H. Carpenter, Geo. W. Curtis, Esq., and others.
